Modest decline in confidence

- Confidence was down 1.4% last week, following a decline of 1.1% the previous week. All of the confidence sub-indices were down, with the exception of a flat 'time to buy' reading.
- Current finances declined by 2.7%, while future finances dropped by 1.5%.
 This compares to up-ticks of 3.7% and 1.3% respectively for the previous week.
- The economic conditions sub-indices were also down; with current economic conditions falling 1% and future economic conditions dropping by 2.6%. This week's moderation comes on the back of falls of 3.6% and 1.7% respectively last week.
- The 'Time to buy a major household item' was unchanged. The four-week moving average for inflation expectations was flat at 4%.

ANZ-Roy Morgan Consumer Confidence and inflation expectations

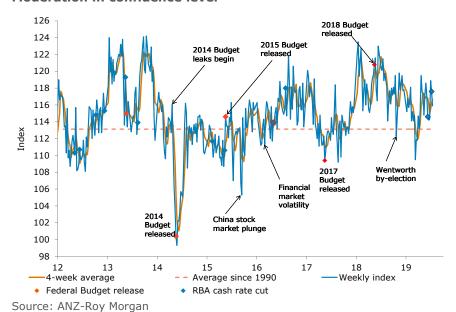

Last week (13-14 Jul)	Weekly change, %	Four-week average	Monthly average since 1990	Inflation expectations (four-week ma)
115.9	-1.4%	116.7	113.1	4.0%

Data collected last weekend (Saturday and Sunday), based on around 1,000 face-to-face interviews. Not seasonally adjusted. Further data history on page 6.

ANZ Head of Australian Economics, David Plank, commented:

"Confidence was down modestly for a second week. The developments in the week were mixed. The NAB monthly business survey remained soft, though some of the details on the labour market were better. The strong bounce in ANZ Job Ads was not reflected in consumer sentiment. On a lighter note, the disappointing (for Australians) outcome of the England-Australia cricket world cup match could have dented the confidence of some respondents. More seriously, it is pleasing that overall confidence remains above average with respondents still reasonably positive about their own financial circumstances."
