Confidence gains for a third week

- Confidence has strengthened for the third week running, up 7.7%. The gain was broadly based, except 'Current Finances' which declined 2.6%.
- 'Future financial conditions' gained 6.6%, in contrast to the fall in 'current finances'. The subindex has been in a positive territory for the last four weeks.
- 'Current economic conditions' gained 9.6%, for the third week straight, while 'future economic conditions' rose 6.7%.
- 'Time to buy a major household item' saw a big gain of 21.5%, while the four-week moving average for 'inflation expectations' fell 0.2ppt to 3.8%. The weekly reading dipped to 3.1%, the lowest in the history of the survey.

ANZ-Roy Morgan Consumer Confidence and inflation expectations

Last weekend (18-19 Apr)	Weekly change, %	Four-week average	Monthly average since 1990	Inflation expectations (four-week ma)
84.2	7.7%	74.9	113	3.8%

This weekly ANZ-Roy Morgan Australian Consumer Confidence Rating is based on 1,444 interviews conducted online and over the telephone on the weekend. Not seasonally adjusted. Further data history on page 6.

ANZ Head of Australian Economics, David Plank, commented:

The flattening in the pandemic curve and the recovery in equity markets may be helping to lift consumer confidence. Better-than-expected news on the labour market may also have boosted sentiment. Confidence is now close to 30% above the historic low reached on the last weekend of March. While the recovery has been solid, sentiment is still well below average. Inflation expectations have dropped, with the weekly reading of 3.1% the lowest since the survey began measuring inflation expectations in 2010. The dramatic drop in petrol prices over recent weeks may be a major contributor to the fall.
