Confidence down for the fourth straight week

- Consumer confidence continues to weaken, falling 1% last week. All the subindices declined except for 'current finances'.
- Financial conditions were mixed, with 'current finances' gaining 2.3% while 'future finances' declined by 2.5%.
- 'Current economic conditions' declined for the fifth straight week, falling 1.5%, while 'future economic conditions' fell 2.7%.
- 'Time to buy a household item' saw a marginal decline, falling 0.1% last week. 'Inflation expectations' gained 0.1 ppt to 3.3% (four-week moving average), its highest level since the end of May.

ANZ-Roy Morgan Consumer Confidence and inflation expectations

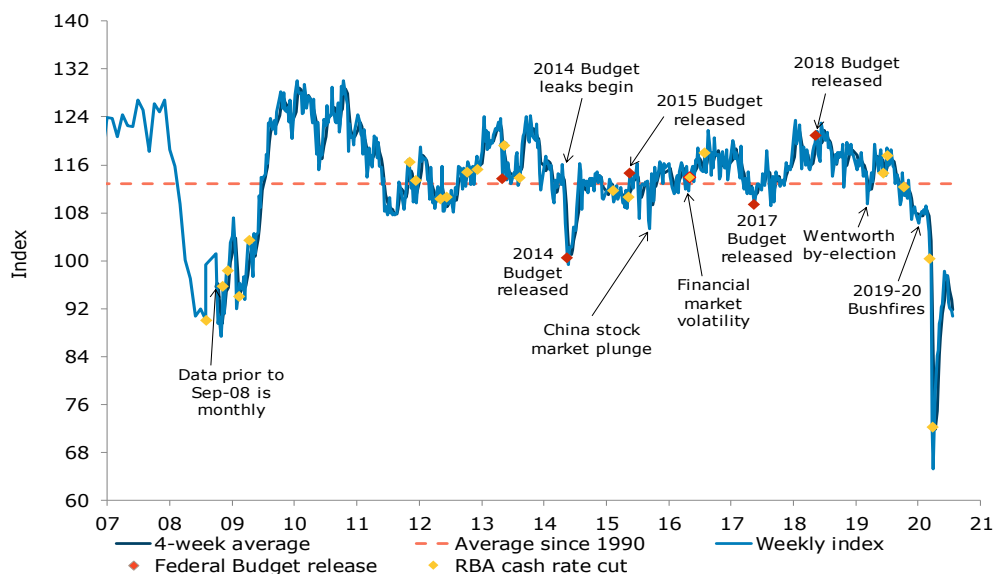

Last weekend (18–19 Jul)	Weekly change, %	Four-week average	Monthly average since 1990	Inflation expectations (four-week ma)
92.1	-1.0%	91.9	112.8	3.3%

This weekly ANZ-Roy Morgan Australian Consumer Confidence Rating is based on 1,383 interviews conducted online and over the telephone on the weekend. Not seasonally adjusted. Further data history on page 6.

ANZ Head of Australian Economics, David Plank, commented:

Confidence continues to decline as the situation in Melbourne worsens and the number of cases in Sydney rises. The decline in sentiment is nowhere near as severe as the fall seen in mid-March, however. The resilience shown by the 'current finances' sub-index, which has actually risen a touch since the end of May as overall sentiment has fallen by almost 8%, is also encouraging. Australia's success in combating the first surge in the pandemic, as well as the expectation that the Government stands ready to extend support if required, is underpinning this resilience.
