*From 3 January 2022, the interviews for the consumer confidence survey have taken place Monday to Sunday. Previously they were done at the weekend (Saturday and Sunday).

Consumer confidence: January uptick mostly retained

- Consumer confidence fell by 0.4pts but the four-week moving average was up 2.0pts.
- Confidence rose in SA and WA but fell in NSW, Victoria and Queensland. The four-week average of confidence moved up for all the mainland states.
- 'Weekly inflation expectations' were down 0.2ppt to 5.0%, while the four-week moving average edged down from 5.3% to 5.1%.
- Three of the five subindices increased. 'Current financial conditions' rose 2.6pts while 'future financial conditions' rose 1.4pts.
- 'Current economic conditions' rose 0.8pts. 'Future economic conditions' fell 3.6pts after a jump of 4.9pts in the previous week.
- The 'time to buy a major household item' subindex fell 3.0pts after an increase of 8.7pts in the previous week.

ANZ-Roy Morgan Consumer Confidence and inflation expectations

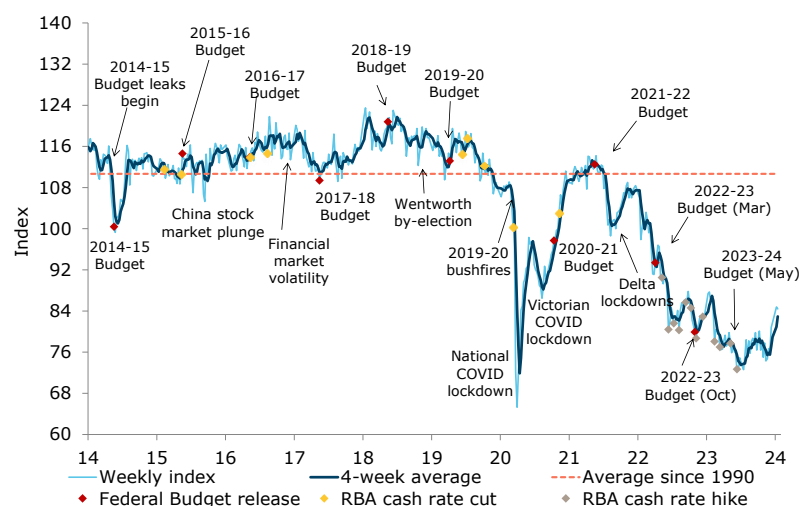

Last week (8-14 Jan)	Weekly change, pts	Four-week average	Monthly average since 1990	Inflation expectations (four-week ma)
84.4	-0.4	83.0	110.7	5.1%

The weekly ANZ-Roy Morgan Australian Consumer Confidence Rating is based on 1,518 interviews conducted online and over the telephone during the week to Sunday.* Not seasonally adjusted. Further data history on page 6.

ANZ Senior Economist, Adelaide Timbrell, commented:

ANZ-Roy Morgan Australian Consumer Confidence retained most of its start-of-January boost, falling just 0.4pts in the week and staying higher than any result between February and December 2023. Confidence about financial conditions and current economic conditions rose, while future economic conditions confidence scaled back after a jump last week. Outright and indebted homeowner confidence is still trending up sharply while renter confidence trends sideways. Rising housing prices may be behind this; we expect capital city housing prices to rise 6% through 2024. We also expect inflation to reduce to just 3.2% y/y by the end of the year, which will help confidence across all cohorts.

Consumer confidence was relatively flat, falling 0.4pt last week
