CEO COMMENTARY⁴

- Profits grew in Australia Retail & Commercial despite challenges in home loans processing
- New Zealand had one of its strongest years with solid balance sheet momentum
- Consistent performance in Institutional with returns again well above the Group cost of capital
- Expenses tightly managed while increasing investment
- Capital managed prudently

ANZ Chief Executive Officer Shayne Elliott said: "This year demonstrated the benefits of our diversified portfolio as we provided solid returns for shareholders while also successfully navigating the continuing impacts of COVID-19 on our customers and our people.

"Australia Retail & Commercial grew lending and customer deposits during the year and delivered good margin performance across the division. Home loan revenue growth was in the low double digits. However, second half volumes were impacted by a competitive refinancing market, customers paying down their loans faster and processing issues. We have been working on a range of improvements and they are already having a positive impact on processing times.

"A focus on improving customer outcomes as well as realising the benefits of prior investments helped New Zealand deliver one of its strongest performances ever. Home loans grew 11% while still taking proactive steps to bring balance to the housing market, such as lifting the deposit required for investor lending. We also maintained our position as the largest provider of KiwiSaver, growing funds under management by 16% to NZ$19 billion.

"Institutional delivered another consistent performance, reflecting the benefits of a simpler, more diversified franchise. This is a business providing sustainable returns well above the Group cost of capital. Markets revenue just below $2 billion in the current environment is testament to its strength and diversity as well as prudent risk settings.

"Our progress in simplifying the business drove down the cost of running the bank for the third consecutive year and we continue to invest in new initiatives at record pace to build a stronger base for future growth. We also managed shareholder capital prudently and led the industry in returning funds to shareholders.

"While we benefitted from a more benign credit environment, indicators such as 90+ days past due and deferrals performed better than expected and reflected our prudent management over many years. We recognise the outlook remains somewhat uncertain and we have more than $4 billion of credit reserves should conditions deteriorate.

"We managed our business against the backdrop of COVID-19. Our employee engagement remained at historically high levels, even as staff largely worked remotely, and we supported our customers in need through the reinstatement of loan deferrals as well as providing finance to increase economic activity," Mr Elliott said.

DIVIDEND & CAPITAL

Capital management remained a feature with ANZ's Common Equity Tier 1 Ratio of 12.3%, remaining ~$6 billion⁵ above Australian Prudential Regulation Authority's 'Unquestionably Strong' benchmark. Combined with solid earnings and improving conditions, the Board determined a Final Dividend of 72 cents per share (cps) was appropriate, taking the Total Dividend for 2021 to 142cps, up by 82cps on the prior year.

In August 2021, ANZ commenced a buy-back of $1.5 billion shares on-market. This reflected our ability to continue to support our customers while also returning surplus capital in a prudent, fair and flexible manner. As at 30 September 2021, ANZ is almost half-way through its current $1.5 billion buyback and will continue to consider the best use of any surplus capital.

ANZ also announced the Dividend Reinvestment Plan (DRP) will continue to apply for the Final 2021 Dividend at no discount and that it plans to neutralise the impact of the shares allocated under the DRP.

CREDIT QUALITY

The total provision result for the full year was a net release of $567 million comprising:

- a collective provision (CP) release of $823 million
- an individually assessed provision (IP) charge of $256 million

The CP release is due to a combination of factors, with changes to the portfolio volume, mix and risk profile occurring throughout the year, and the economic outlook improving in the first half. As at 30 September 2021, the uncertainty arising from extended lockdowns in major cities has limited further such releases in the second half.

In general, our customers continued to manage well through the pandemic, leading to a low IP charge for the full year. Disciplined focus on strategy and customer selection in Institutional has contributed to this strong result, as has the continued impact of government and bank support packages. At the end of the financial year, the CP balance of $4,195 million represents additional provisions of $819 million compared with pre-COVID levels at 30 September 2019.

FURTHER COMMENTS

Mr Elliott said: "We are making good progress in the multi-year transformation of ANZ. We continue to invest in group-wide automation, cloud migration and digitisation to enable low cost, sustainable customer growth.

"In Australia, we are building growth-oriented retail and small business propositions centred around delivering compelling digital offerings that will improve the financial wellbeing of our customers and drive long-term customer and revenue growth. We have our eye on the long-term opportunity and made significant progress and these investments, known internally as ANZx, will become more visible to customers into 2022.

"New Zealand is expected to continue to deliver robust returns and maintain its strong market position.

"Institutional is now a better-balanced, more predictable and higher returning business. We are in a strong position to take advantage of the structural tailwinds we believe will impact institutional banking, particularly in a rising interest rate environment and the build out of our banking platforms business. Changes from the implementation of APRA's proposed capital reforms are also likely to be a further tailwind for Institutional.

"Sustainable finance will be one of the mega-trends to impact the global economy in the next few years. Given our broad international network and leadership in institutional banking, we believe we are the best-placed of the domestic banks to support the economic transition. In fact, we have been operating in the sustainability business since it emerged and we're well on target to provide $50 billion worth of sustainable finance solutions by 2025.

"Experience tells us the real impacts of COVID-19 will not be fully understood until at least the end of 2022, however we're well positioned financially and culturally to respond. There will be opportunities that arise and we are investing for growth with the mindset and agility to continue to deliver for customers, shareholders and the community.

"Finally, I would also like to acknowledge our 40,000 people who have been unwavering in a challenging and at times confronting environment," Mr Elliott said.
